'HERMIT' GOES ON TRIAL AGAIN

Ernest Conrad, Called "Hermit of the Mississippi," Up in Court for Robbing Mails.

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—Lanky, long-haired Ernest Conrad, whose appearance and inscrutability led to the appellation "Hermit of the Mississippi," went on trial for the third time here today, on the charge of robbing the United States mails at East Quincy.

Tried here last year for attempting to rob the mails on Jan. 24, 1921, Conrad went to a second trial at Quincy, because of a disagreement in the jury room. The Quincy trial resulted in an acquittal.

Later Conrad was rearrested at Alliance, Neb., charged with robbing the mails on Feb. 25, 1921. This is the charge for which he was put on trial today. The attempted robbery on Jan. 24 failed when the mail clerk slammed the mail car door on the robber, but the robbery of Feb. 25 was successful. Conrad, it is alleged, stole several sacks of mail.

Today he maintained a stolid silence. L. E. Stone, who has been appointed to defend him, did not indicate what the defense would be.

COURT REFUSES BRUNDAGE PLEA

Denies Request to Send Dr. Schaefer Case Back to Municipal Court Without Hearing.

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—Charging that the state department of registration and education had attempted to "strip the attorney-general of his power as chief law officer of the state," by prosecuting Dr. Robert E. Schaefer, osteopath of Chicago, without his help, the attorney-general today asked the supreme court to send the case back to the municipal court of Chicago for a re-trial without hearing it. The supreme court denied the request.

Through "ignorance and inexperience," the attorney-general charged, the case in the lower court was bungled. Because of the importance of the case, which attacks the medical practice act of 1899, the attorney-general made an alternative request that the case be continued until the October term, but that also was denied. Schaefer was charged with practicing surgery, for which he was fined $100.

MAKER OF HOME BREW DUMPS IT DOWN THE DRAIN

The saddest words of tongue or pen, "It might have been," were repeated by Reuben Leboutz Saturday afternoon as he toiled in the city hall garage, emptying into the drain $250 worth of beer he himself had made.

That was the penalty exacted by Judge F. J. Landee in the county court last week, when he put Leboutz on parole and ordered him to dispose of nearly two thousand bottles of beer seized by the police two weeks ago when Leboutz's place, 412 Ninth street, was raided. Leboutz was arrested for manufacturing the beverage and having it in his possession. Officials say the test of his oldest stuff showed about 1 per cent alcohol.

Reuben thought that the amount of beer taken by the officer from his place would be worth about $250.

Pedestrians who smelled the old-time brewery odor emanating from the open doors of the city hall garage late Saturday afternoon and into the evening made many conjectures as to its source. Little did they guess the sardonic penance Leboutz was undergoing, that he was laboriously opening bottle by bottle, the home brew, and allowing it to trickle down the sewer.

But yesterday the huge heap of cases and sacks full of bottles which had taken up one side of the garage, to the inconvenience of the city mechanics, for many days, was gone and only some bottle caps in the alley and a faint hop-yeast odor on the floor remained of the Leboutz beer supply.
